the prettiest sights of Richmond is the large number of little children who may be seen every bright afternoon in the Capitol Square; and one of the most painful sights, especially these sweet little things sometimes receive from the hands of thoughtless and ill-tempered nurses. Mothers who send out their children for health or pleasure would find it to their interest to inquire whether the enoyment of the chidren is uppermost in the minds of the nurses when out of the sight of their employers.

THEATRE.-This afternoon and to-night the very highly-entertaining French company conclude their season in Richmond. The afternoon, or matinee, performance will consist of La Perichole, in which Aimée plays one of her most triumphant rôles. The whole piece is admirably represented by the company, and is one of the most irresistibly comical and gay that could be well gotten up. To-night La Grande Duchesse will close the oright performances of the week. It is a comedy with which the public is pretty well acquainted, but it will be in a great degree fresh and novel, brought on by the French actors, who are the special artists of opera bouffe. The play-goers were on Thursday night quite carried away by the "most excellent fooling" and extravaganza comique of La Empress de Trebizonde. We mention the fact because of the very extraordinary degree of enjoyment that was afforded to the audience. The dressing was admirable, the performance so rich and rare, that the audience was lost in merriment. The performance of the comic presentation of La Belle Helene-the immortal heroine of Troy-last night was also one of the best of the company.

But for the drawback that the plays of French language the Theatre would have been crowded during the season. The capi-UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT-Judge tal performances of the French actors in opera Robert W.
